CORS / Optimization Days 2006

Joint Conference

Montreal, May 8-10, 2006

The Annual Meeting of the Canadian Operational Research Society (CORS) is an international conference dedicated to operations research methods and their applications. Optimization Days is an annual conference organized alternately by the Centre for Research on Transportation (C.R.T.) and the Groupe d'Études et de Recherche en Analyse des Décisions (GERAD). In 2006, these two events will be held jointly and will take place in Montreal.

All those interested in operations research and optimization methods, and their applications, are invited to participate. The languages of the conference will be English and French. The conference will be held at HEC Montréal, 3000 chemin de la Côte-Sainte-Catherine, Montreal, near the Campus of the Université de Montréal.

The deadline for submitting an abstract is March 15, 2006.

The conference will be followed immediately by the Spring School on Vehicle Routing which will be held at HEC Montréal from May 10 to 12, by the Workshop on Call Centers which will be held at Université de Montréal on May 11, and by the Research Workshop on Emergency Department Operations which will be held at McGill University on May 11.
